The article examines the level of codification of count form from 1945 until now. In some reference books it is not mentioned at all, in other there are detailed rules of its use. The biggest change is related to personal nouns – in 1945 there are doublets (both ordinary plural form and count form after numerals are accepted by codification) and only in 1983 it is written that after numerals ordinary plural form of personal nouns is preferred. In the newest codification from 2012 there are detailed rules of the use of count form and it is stated that after numerals must be used the ordinary plural form of personal nouns.
